FINANCIAL. The banks were places of quietude, almost silent enough for meditation on sublunary things yesterday. Exchange was in tolerable supply for the season; the rate on New York and eastern par buying, 14 premium selling; New Orleans 14 discount, selling at par. Fall River is taken at par. The following from the Chicago Times describes very well the situation in Memphis, showing how universal is the stagnation in business: "In the prevail-ing feeling, as well as in the actual situation, there was no improvement whatever. As deposits are now large, money was universally reported as altogether too plenty to suit; iterest rates were weak at the customary summer quotations, and borrowers found no trouble in having their calls promptly honored. Notwithstanding the activity shown in general matters, monetary affairs were slow for the banks, and business was unquestionably unprofitable." A work The Future Currencies of the United States. recently published, is well spoken of for its ctical excellence; the writer is of nion "that the future currency of the country should consist of subsidiary silver coin, and United States legal-tender notes, convertible on demand into gold coin. In other words, the basis should be gold coin, and this should be supplementary, or token, silver coins, and by convertible legal-tender notes of the United States. The national bank notes should be retired as they are received as the banks may choose to suriender them, or lose them by failure, or going into voluntary liquidation."
